

Convenience of Oblivion

Easy to forget hard to remember life is performance memory is recording seen by a sharp eye perceived by crystal clear mind

Being manifested through remembering keeping the remembered in existence as alive as a living can be felt dead

Hard to explain a person or event omitted erasing down to the smallest details which are keeping it alive

Memory inhibition with or without intention some memories are retained for a lifetime anyway most of them will be forgotten soon

Freedom from collective memory in form of trauma or disturbing feelings may result in sacrificing recall of joyful moments

As change is a permanent condition making to know precisely impossible guessing right to a degree might be an option

Now tossing about in the waves of emotions in regret for deleting traces wants and hurts too late to try to find the source of failure to recall

Art of living as performance acted by an actor let the inner smile and intention despite outer conditions shine on long-term memory unaffected by age

Between equanimity and progressing decay sinking down into the depths of dementia vanishing as the game is over